

Sinclair Broadcasting is forcing their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary, "Stolen Honor: Wounds That Never Heal," days before the election. This is clearly partisan and should not be allowed. If Sinclair is allowed to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary, then Sinclair should be forced by the FCC to air a pro-Kerry documentary, such as "Going Upriver," in a similar time-slot and in a timely manor prior to the election.

This is an example of what can happen when one company owns too big a percentage of the media market. The law needs to be changed to prevent one company from controlling too much, and thus pushing its own agenda on the viewer.

Thank you.
